USB flash drive has officially claimed as a chic accessory!
Apacer Technology Inc, a global leader in memory modules and digital storage, will launch today the new Handy Steno AH520, a high performance USB flash drive with a hip look. AH520 's revolutionary capless design and magnetic locking strap won the 2006 Japan G-Mark design award. Users could easily match it with their outfit. Beyond the chic look, AH520 offers up to 8 GB of storage, 240X high performance USB 2.0 interface, and is ready for Windows Vista Readyboost. Combining style and quality, AH520 is the first class product that provides the most efficient technology solution and fashion statement.

According to Apacer's Product Director, C.K. Chang, "today's consumers are highly demanding for both quality and style. This is why we made our AH520 a product with great performance and trendy appeal as well." AH520's colorful leather strap got magnet on the top to lock the flash drive for either open or close. It is free to attach to anything and solved the problem of cap lost forever. Lock and Link" is the main design idea of AH520. When the magnet locks the USB adapter, the leather strap and high quality argyle name plate could be feely mixed and matched with the user's outfit. Opening the magnetic locking strap, the USB adapter will be pulled out automatically by gravity, and easily link into the computer. With a read access speed up to 36MB/sec and a write access speed up to 20 MB/sec, the AH520 is also a time-saving tool for large-sized digital file. It is the best choice for the user who has to download/upload large-sized files frequently.

In addition, AH520's carry strap has four colors: red, blue, green and orange, and each color presents a different capacity from 1 GB to 8GB. Apacer has also bundled an extension cradle for AH520. This optional accessory features a built-in anion emitter to purify the air around and brings users better life quality while they are using an USB flash drive. Without doubt, AH520 is the next generation flash drive, which could meet modern consumer's need and becomes an accessory everybody wanted. The Handy Steno AH520 will be available in March, and it will be the hottest product for the coming year.
